

NEW CATALOGUE SEPTEMBER 2009

For September 2009, Reflections on Learning has expanded with over 300 new and exciting products, all hand picked and developed to support creative early years practitioners as they develop an enabling environment, participate enthusiastically in children's learning and act as role models for creativity and curiosity.

To express their creativity and to develop their critical thinking skills, children need open ended resources which can suggest something new and different each time they are used. Light boxes, mirrors, small world play resources, natural materials, exploration kits and musical instruments are ideal examples of this.
